

Setting Up a Company-Wide Trial

Fluke Biomedical OneQA is a collaborative tool, and our trial experience is no exception. Your trial will be more meaningful if done as a team.

Help each other work faster and safer by sharing:

- Notes

Let's get your team started!

1. Create your company-level trial or 'tenant' account

To share your OneQA trial with your team, you need a 'tenant' or company-level trial account. Most people name their tenant after their company.

2. Invite your colleagues or 'tenant-members'

After creating your tenant trial account, you need to invite your teammates. You are already a member because you created the tenant. Add your teammates to your trial by inviting them when prompted.

3. Start collaborating!

For full trial instructions, please reference our Quick Start Guide.

Thank you for your interest in Fluke Biomedical OneQA. Your workflow is unique, and we built our software to accommodate you. Please feel free to ask us questions or request our help to customize your trial installation so you can explore what OneQA can do for you.

Have fun automating!
